

Industrial policy in South Africa

01 & 02 October 2019

AIMS

The training programme will acquaint participants with the underlying logic of industrial policy; the pros and cons of available measures and policy instruments; and methods for engaging business, labour and communities as key stakeholders in economic policy. It will take a practical, hands-on approach based principally on analysis of South African experiences and evidence.

The workshop will address the following issues:

- The aims of industrial policy in South Africa;
- International perspectives, experiences and debates on industrial policy;
- Using value chain analysis to develop sector strategies;
- Core policy instruments and measures;
- The role and modalities of stakeholder engagement;
- Managing risk in industrial policy.

APPROACH

The workshop will combine formal inputs and readings with interactive sessions that draw on the experience and interests of participants. In order to gain practical learnings for policy making and implementation, the workshop will include group work on participants' experiences in developing and implementing industrial-policy measures.

The workshops will be facilitated by Dr Neva Makgetla of TIPS. Neva has extensive experience in economic policy development both inside and outside of government. She has also led a number of major research projects on the South African economy.

If you are interested in attending this workshop please contact:

Rozale Sewduth
Trade & Industrial Policy Strategies (TIPS)
(Rozale@tips.org.za)
(012) 433 9340

Workshop fees R6,000 (VAT incl) per participant.

Venue: TIPS Offices, 234 Lange Street, Nieuw Muckleneuk, PTA

Note: The offering of the workshop is dependent on attracting a minimum number of 10 students by the time of the payment closing date while the maximum number of students is 20. Note that TIPS will not make refunds after the payment due date unless the workshop is cancelled. TIPS's invoice documentation (tax clearance, bank clearance, etc) will only be sent on request by registered post. It is therefore important to make sure that TIPS is on your organisation's list of preferred suppliers and to factor-in sufficient time for these processes